AWFUL NIGHT OF HORROR

750 Persons On Burning Ship In a Raging Wind Storm.

136 PERSONS LOST LIVES

Storm Subsidied At Daybreak and 521 Were Saved By Succoring Ships.

London, Oct. 13.—Not since the Titanic sank has Europe been so thrilled as by a wireless message to-day telling of the burning of the steamship Volturno in Mid-Atlantic, with a loss, so far as is at present known, of 136 lives and the rescue of 521. The survivors are now aboard a fleet of steamers summoned by the Volturno's call for help, some of which are bound eastward and others westward.

The Volturno sailed from Rotterdam on October 2 for New York. According to the official statement she carried twenty-two first cabin passengers, 538 steerage and a crew numbering 96.

The rescue ships reached the scene of the disaster in plenty of time to save all, but for hours stood by the blazing vessel, impotent because of the storm to reach the agonized men, women and children crowding the afterpart of the ship, which was within a stone's throw.

Great Explosion.

The hopelessness of the situation was manifested at 9 o'clock in the evening when a great explosion tore away a part of the upper works and flames burst from the engine room. It then became a matter of how long the Volturno would stay above the waters.

Meanwhile several of the terrified passengers wrapped in life buoys, dropped over into the sea. One of them was taken aboard the Carmania.

When day broke the Volturno was still afloat. The gale had moderated and the seas had calmed down. From almost every one of the encircling steamers lifeboats were sent out and into these the women and children were lowered first. Several trips were necessary before the survivors were removed to a place of safety.

MADE A RECORD

Pennyroyal Won Place in Poultry Department of Southern Fair Ass'n.

The following placard was tacked up at the Northern entrance to the poultry display at the fair last Friday.

"This places the Pennyroyal in Southern State Fair Class Never before done by a first show."

The poultry department was a great success, so great that exhibitors from a distance were very much surprised to meet with so much competition.

Drew His Gun.

Joe Garth, colored, who was creating a disturbance at the L. & N. station Saturday, resisted when officer Garland Jones undertook to place him under arrest and drew his pistol. Special officer McGee went to the assistance of Sergeant Jones and the negro was taken to the lockup. Garth is said to be a dangerous negro and a few years ago shot and killed another negro. The grand jury will investigate the case.

Rally at Pembroke.

Next Saturday there will be a Democratic rally at Pembroke, and it goes without saying that it will be "a rally what is a rally."

NEGRO SENT TO PADUCAH

Was Put Under $300 Bond But Couldn't Make It.

HAD MAIL IN HIS POSSESSION

Warrant of Arrest Sworn Out By Postoffice Inspector Milligan.

Charles Garth, a negro of this city was before U. S. Commissioner Clark last Saturday. He had been arrested on a warrant sworn out by Post office Inspector Milligan, charged with having in his possession mail matter which had not been delivered to the consignee.

The negro claims that he found the matter and did not steal it.

It is said that the negro was riding on the mail wagon with the regular driver when that party was in transit from or to the postoffice.

When Commissioner Clark called the case Garth waived an examination and the commissioner gave him a chance to execute a $300 bond, for his appearance before the next U. S. grand jury or go to jail. He failed to make bond and was sent to the Paducah jail pending an examination by the grand jury.

T. A. SMITHSON DEAD.

Succumbs to Paralysis After Long Suffering.

Mr. Thomas A. Smithson died Sunday midnight of paralysis, aged about 60 years. He had been in declining health for some time and the end was not unexpected. He is survived by his widow, and the following brothers and sisters: Messrs. James A., Charles W., and Luther H. Smithson, all of this county; Mrs. W. E. Adcock, of Church Hill; Mrs. C. H. Bagby, of Lafayette; Mrs. N. L. Turner, of Guthrie, and Rev. John O. Smithson, of Vine Grove.

Mr. Smithson was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church and was a citizen who enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who knew him. His funeral services will be held from the Cumberland Presbyterian church this morning at 10:30 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Eshman, and the interment will take place in Riverside Cemetery.

NEW LAND

As Large As Greenland Discovered By Russians.

St. Michael, Alaska, Oct. 13.—The Russian government steamers, Taimyr and Waygatch, under Commander Wilitzky, who have been engaged in arctic exploration north of Siberia for three years, have arrived here for coal. Captain Wilitzky reports the discovery of a body of land as large as Greenland, extending beyond latitude 81 north and longitude 102 east.

Dr. Francis Edward Forward, chief medical officer of the Holloway jail, accused by militant suffragettes of responsibility for the forcible feeding system, was horsewhipped in the street in London by three women Saturday.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY

Building On Peace Park is Located and Staked Off.

WORK WILL SOON START

Test Suit to Be Brought To Remove Any Possible Doubts.

A meeting of the Public Library Board was held at Peace Park yesterday and after a conference with the contractor for the building and with Mayor Meacham it was decided to have a test suit brought this week in circuit court and settle any doubt of the city's right to locate the library on Peace park. The site selected and staked off, is in the southeastern corner, 25 feet from Tenth street and 30 feet from Campbell street. There have been some objections raised to the location in the park and it was deemed best by all concerned that the legal question raised be passed upon in advance.

The suit will be brought as an injunction suit by agreement one day this week, either by the Mayor or in the name of some taxpayer.

GAMBLING MACHINES

Were Cut Out By Directors of the Fair.

The devices to relieve people of their loose change during the fair were seen on every hand, but the directors of the fair to make good their promise for a clean fair, had to cut out some of the plans arranged to get something for nothing. Half a dozen or more that could not, by any technicality, evade the law, had to "fold their tents" and quit business.

Circuit Court.

The case against Nobe Sims, charged with assault and battery was on trial yesterday.

A little after 2 o'clock the argument in the case of the Commonwealth against Napoleon Simms for assault and battery was closed and the case given to the jury.

At 2:30 a jury was being made up to try the case of the Commonwealth against Will Thomas, colored, for killing Gilbert Hooks, colored. The killing occurred on June 25th this year on the farm of Thomas Garnett, near Pembroke. The largest crowd of the term was present, consisting mostly of colored people. The seats were all occupied and the gallery was crowded.

There is one other case docketed for immediate trial. This killing occurred during last summer. Two young negroes, John Cayce and Saint Layne, got into a difficulty, when Cayce knocked Layne in the head with a base ball bat. The lick proved fatal in a day or two.

The grand jury reconvened yesterday after a week's vacation, and will probably be in session all of this week.

Day-Thacker.

William Day, formerly of this city but now of Little Rock, Ark., and Miss Hattie Lee Thacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thacker, were married Saturday morning at the home of Mr. H. R. Tilford, East 13th street. Rev. J. B. Eshman officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Day have gone to Little Rock to reside.

Crick-Grace.

Arthur Crick and Miss Eva Grace, of North Christian, were married in Clarksville Saturday.

MRS. BLYTHE CALLED AWAY

After Months of Illness Succumbed Sunday Afternoon.

PARALYSIS CAUSED DEATH

Had Large Family Connection and Survived By Seven Children.

Mrs. Matilda R. Blythe, widow of the late John Blythe, died at her home, Cleveland Avenue and Second street, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the 64th year of her age.

Mrs. Blythe was ill during the entire summer but had grown strong enough to walk on the porch last Thursday. Thursday night she had a stroke of paralysis and was unconscious during the whole time up to her death. She never opened her eyes until a moment before her death. Then for a second she saw the light and her eyes closed in death.

Mrs. Blythe is survived by seven children, four sons and three daughters. Walter and Lonnie, of Louisville, and Maxey and William Blythe, of this city; Mrs. Eliza Peden, Mrs. George Merritt and Mrs. Bernice Nichols, of this city. She was a sister of the late Judge A. H. Anderson, Mrs. James M. Higgins, Mrs. A. F. Witty, Mrs. A. A. Buckley, Mr. Tal. Anderson, of this city; Geo. Anderson, of Archer, Fla., and Joe Anderson, of Birmingham, Ala.

Mrs. Blythe was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church for nearly two score years and was kindhearted and charitable, always ready to help in trouble or wait upon the sick.

Funeral services were held at the home yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. B. Eshman, burial in Riverside Cemetery.

NOT WEDDED TO THE TRUTH

Descendants of the Original Ananias
Evidently Still Flourish in Provinces of China.

The honesty and frankness of the Chinese has often been matter for travelers' tales; but, according to Frank Wallace, author of "The Big Game of Central and Western China,"
it is only the inhabitants of the coast provinces who are distinguished for veracity, says the New York Post.
In the course of his excursion to the Gobi desert to supply takin and other rare mammals to the British museum, he suffered much inconvenience
and a few misfortunes from the inability of the natives to tell the unvarnished truth.

Two incidents he recounted have the saving grace of humor. He came once upon a region, where pheasants
were plentiful, and if he had had dogs,
he might have enjoyed first-rate covert shooting. When he questioned his guides as to their numbers, a certain celebrated Ananias set about recounting the details of a ride where birds
were plentiful.

"Suddenly," he declared, "my horse
shied. My gun was slung on my back.
Both barrels went off. I looked around
and there were three dead pheasants
in the road!"

It was this same man who, one day
when the conversation turned on celebrated travelers, saw a chance too good to be missed. Marco Polo's
name had just been mentioned.

"Marco Polo," said the man in a casual manner, flicking off the end of his cigar. "Oh, yes, my old father was his guide. A nice man. He came from Russia. How old was he? Well, I never saw him myself; it was before my time. About forty-five, I should say. He had a grand horse
he brought with him all the way from his own country. He gave it to my father, but the poor beast died from grief when the old man pegged out."
It would seem that this was just
the sort of person on whom Marco Polo, when he traveled in that part of the world, actually depended for information.

Hope of Mississippi Planters in War
Constantly Waged on Cotton Destroyers.

Lee Hamilton, a Lauderdale
county farmer, has directed attention to the lowly little toad as the farmer's hope in his battle with the boll weevil, and the toad may hereafter be looked upon with more favor
than ever before in his history.

Mr. Hamilton states that he found a couple of the toads busily engaged feeding at the end of a cotton room. Being curious to know what they were eating, he "operated" on them and found in one of them 70
boll weevils, in the other 100 of the insect pests. This is as many as the farmer would find in a day's hunt, and proves very conclusively,
if Mr. Hamilton's story be true, that the toad is a valuable little fellow
and that they should be protected
by law, just as are insectivorous
birds.

It has long been known that toads
are valuable adjuncts to any garden
or truck patch and there is at least one gardener in Jackson who carefully deposits him in his garden.
That is one of the secrets of his success and one of the reasons why
he has plenty of good vegetables
when his neighbors have none. This gardener declares that toads destroy thousands of insects that are injurious to his plants, and he gives them every possible protection—leaving piles of grass and trash and wide boards in out-of-the-way places
for them to hide under by day.—

Singer's Marvelous Memory.
It is said that Herr Stehmann
learned the entire part of the "Wanderer" in "Siegfried" in six hours;
and on one occasion when Herr Krauss, who was to have taken the leading role in Xaver Scharwenka's
"Matasvinka," was suddenly taken ill,
Stehmann, who had never before seen
the part, mastered it so completely between the afternoon rehearsal and
the evening performance, that in both
words and music he was absolutely perfect.

Was Really "Speaker."
It was his power of protesting that in the first place gave the speaker of the British house of commons his name. For the early members were not great at oratory and soon realized the desirability of choosing a spokesman with a ready tongue and
the courage to argue with the king.
Hence came the title of "speaker,"
which was first given to Sir Thomas Hungerford in 1376.

dence—Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney ills. Doan's Ointment for skin

Was Not in Speaker's Mind.
On one occasion, when a certain legislative candidate, known as a clever speaker and very effective in dealing with a hostile audience, was addressing a meeting in his constituency, he had no sooner risen and said, "Gentlemen," than some one threw an egg at him. Quite unperturbed, he turned to the offender and said: "I was not speaking to you, sir."

OF KENTUCKY

ANCE IN TAX LAWS NEEDED

Why Are 600,000 of Kentucky's People
Living in Other States?—A True Story With a Moral—What Do You Think About These Conditions?

A traveler recently, while waiting to change cars at a little town in Southeastern Kentucky, had a conversation with an intelligent business man of the place and ascertained the following facts:

"What is your population?" he asked.
"About two thousand."
"What is your principal industry?"
"We have none, unless stores count."
"Have you no factories?"
"None except a tombstone maker."
"How is your population employed?"
"Well, we have fifty-two stores, nine
hotels and restaurants, two newspapers, one laundry, one photograph gallery and two banks."

"You seem to have good railroad facilities."
"Yes, we have railroads running north, south, east and west; twenty-six passenger trains in and out every day and no end of freight trains."

"What does the surrounding country produce?"

"Coal, timber, clay, stone, corn,
wheat, tobacco, fruit and vegetables."
"What becomes of all these?"
"They are shipped to different parts of the country."

"Has your town increased in population?"

"Not much in the past twenty-five years."

"How are your young people employed?"

"They mostly drift away and get
work in the cities."

"Has it never occurred to you to start a few factories and keep them at home?"

"Yes, it has been tried, and we at one time had a commercial club, whose aim it was to get some factories here,
but they couldn't seem to do anything."

"What were the obstacles?"

"Well, some people were induced to come here and found cheap land, cheap
fuel, good shipping facilities, but no
labor, and some of the inquisitive ones
asked about taxes, etc., and nothing
came of it."

"What is the trouble with your taxes?"

"Well, you see, we have the general
property tax in Kentucky, and when they were shown the assessors' lists
and found they had to pay taxes on about seventy-five different kinds of property, and all at the same rate, they ducked."

"Is this true about the taxes?"

"Well, it is pretty near the facts.
The city and county and state and schools all have to be paid, and if a man starts a factory he has to pay on his machinery, his raw material and
finished goods; his cash and accounts,
and, of course, on his land and buildings, and a good many other things,
including his watch and stickpin, and,
if he wants to educate his children, he must pay on the books and piano and his horse and buggy and almost everything but his shirt, and the trouble is,
he never knows exactly what his taxes
will be. If he omits any of the seventy-five things the legislature could think of and the miscellaneous things he must think of himself, there is the revenue agent who gets a commission on anything he can find, and then there is the county equalization board, which scrutinizes his returns and adds what it likes, and then the state board at Frankfort takes a whack at it and generally raises the whole list, and it simply keeps everybody going who has anything to be taxed."

"Why don't you change the tax laws?"

"Well, they put the law relating to revenue and taxation in the state constitution, and it takes about five years
to effect a change, and it is hard to get
the voters to understand the question.
The last legislature passed an amendment and it will be voted on at the November (1913) election, and if it is ratified the change will be made."

"I live in Pennsylvania, and every town in that state as large as yours
has a factory of some kind, and many of them several. They employ the young men and women and keep them and the money they earn at home. But here comes my train, and all I can say is, you people should wake up, and if your tax laws are oppressive, change
them, and your state will blossom like
the rose."

"Well, good-bye, stranger. I intend to vote for the amendment myself, and may be others will do the same. It can't be any worse than the present system, and I surely would like to see some smokstacks looming up in these parts. Farewell."

FROM REPORT OF KENTUCKY
TAX REVISION COMMISSION, 1910.

"So long as the state adheres to its present system of taxation fixed by constitutional provisions, it will impose upon its citizens a very serious
handicap in the competition with the citizens of other states more favored
in their tax laws, and must inevitably lose both desirable population and much needed capital."

Save Gentle Voice for Home.

I would say to all: Use your gentlest voice at home. Watch it day by day as a pearl of great price; for
it will be worth more to you in days
to come than the best pearl hid in the sea. A kind voice is joy, like a

PAID FOR WITH HUMAN LIFE

Man's Many Conquests in Various Fields of Struggle Have Always Been Costly.

It would be difficult to decide in what field of struggle the indomitable soul of man finds its freest expression of the courage that is in it. In every age the spirit of adventure has spurred men to the point of holding life very lightly, where high achievement was possible. In the experimental stage of the submarine and the airplane hundreds of lives have been sacrificed; but every loss has brought success one step nearer than before. And the world has always been willing to pay for its triumphs. In aviation hundreds have perished in attempts at long-distance flight, and now we have the news of the wonderful achievement of Brindejonc des Moulinais, a French aviator who, on July 2, completed an aerial journey of 3,100 miles, from Paris to St. Petersburg and back, being the longest voyage thus far recorded. This conqueror of the air is a mere lad of twenty-one. Part of the time he was traveling at 110 miles an hour, and for a short distance he attained a speed of 140 miles per hour. Traveling at a great height over the Baltic sea, he was seriously confused by mistaking a group of islands for dancing and vanishing clouds, but his nerve of steel kept him from losing his head, which doubtless is the reason why so many aviators suddenly "go to pieces" and perish. His wonderful adventure will doubtless stimulate others to still more daring attempts, involving new sacrifice of lives laid on the altar of aerial conquest.

PITY WASTED ON THE TOAD

Philosopher Advances Many Reasons Why Small Creature Is Not in Need of Sympathy.

"I have lately read several bits of good writing in defense of the toad," calmly stated Stanley Livingston Muttshaw, the amateur philosopher. "But while I do not wish to appear hypercritical, or anything of the kind, I beg to say that His Honor the Toad, as I see him, needs little defense. By summer visitors from the city strolling along the gooseberry vines he is often mistaken for a well-filled pocketbook, and it is certainly quite a nice thing to look like ready money. The toad cannot sing and never attempts to, which is greatly to his credit. He worries not at all about next winter's gas shortage, but retires in the fall into the bosom of a sand bank and there lies as dormant as a doormat while the wild wyndes blow and the driven shows drive. Indeed, you can bury him in the middle of a solid rock in the time of Pharaoh and crack him out on the Fourth of July, 1914, and find him in perfect order, physically and mentally. He is built on the architectural style of the average alderman, than whom there is nobody better qualified to take care of himself in emergencies; and he goes the politician one better, for while they both run largely to abdomen, the toad merely sits meditatively and rests his stomach on the ground whenever it becomes a wearisome burden, and the alderman can't. To the thoughtful toad would seem to be more an object for envy than pity."—Kansas City Star.

"Daisy" Well Named.

The Latin name of the daisy comes from a word meaning "pretty," and all will agree that it is well named. Our English word daisy is really "day's eye," and that is what it was called many hundred years ago.

Like the dandelion, each of its flowers is made up of a number of little ones, the tiny golden "disk flowers" in the center and the long white "ray flowers" around them. Daisies growing on the prairies of Kentucky to Texas have violet or purple rays.

To this same big family or "order" belong the asters, robin's plantain, goldenrod, dahlia, bonaset and many other common but beautiful wild flowers which we all know so well.

If we look at the flowers in the yellow center of a daisy through a microscope we shall find that each is shaped like a little bell and has pointed teeth on its edge.

He Should Worry.

At least one Detroit is possessed of a philosophical turn of mind that should send him through life content with his lot, remarks the Free Press of that city. Recently he had the misfortune to break an arm while cranking his automobile. A few days later a friend encountered him on the street and started to sympathize with him because of his trouble. The man with a broken arm sat up in his seat and eyed his friend coldly.

"Why should I worry?" he inquired. "Your accident," said the astonished sympathizer.

"Say," confided the injured one, "I haven't any holler coming on that score. Do you know, just a few days before I broke my arm I took out an accident policy that pays me $25 a week. I hire a chauffeur now for $15. That leaves me $10 every week with which to buy gasoline for the car. Not so bad, eh?"

Such Is Life.

"A newspaper dispatch states that a married woman with a family was struck by a train and when she opened her eyes she thought she was a young girl again."

"I hope that dispatch won't be wide ly read."

"Why not?"

"It may be necessary to hire guards to keep married women off railroad tracks."

FOR EXPERTS TO FIGURE ON

Little Problem as to "What Becomes of the Money" Seems a Bit Puzzling.

Here is a little problem in the popular course, "What Becomes of the Money?" A small bundle of linen is sent to the laundry. The bill is 30 cents. But in doing the work the laundry loses a house cap worth 50 cents. The laundry willingly adjusts matters and gives its patron 50 cents for the lost cap. The patron, in turn, gives 30 cents back to the laundry for the work done. In reckoning the result this was apparently the case. The owner of the linen—minus the missing cap—had 20 cents to show for the lost article. But the cap was worth 50 cents. Therefore the patron's loss would appear to be 30 cents. It apparently was no better with the laundry. The laundry received 30 cents justly due it for work. But it felt impelled to make good the loss of the cap to the customer, which meant the taking of 50 cents from the laundry's profits. Now, if the laundry thus lost 50 cents and the customer lost 30 cents, who got that money? Perhaps some expert on the high cost of living can figure it out.

MADE THE LONDONERS LAUGH

American Orator's Little Surprise a Good Deal of a "Hit" in British Capital.

An American orator sprang a pleasant little surprise at a dinner in London the other night. The trick is well known in his own country, but is something of a novelty here.

"Words do not come easily to me," he said, and the sympathy of his audience was aroused.

"I cannot do better," he continued, "than quote from an author familiar to us all." Then he proceeded:

"A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z."

The quotation was delivered with due emphasis, and anyone at the end of the room might have imagined that he was saying something really weighty.

Then he started all over again, "A B C D," etc., his voice rising and falling. Here a touch of pathos, there a flash of rhetoric. Four or five times he went through the performance, the laughter growing as his hearers entered more and more into the humor of the thing.—Tit-Bits.

RIGHT TO HISS UPHELD.

If you didn't like a "turn" in a London music hall show you have the right to "hiss it." A jury of free-born Englishmen have so decided at the Swansea assizes.

Alfred E. Pratt, employed by a London publishing firm, claimed that he was justified in showing disapproval of what his counsel described as the vulgar and silly doggerel of one of the songs.

The jury found for the plaintiff, and awarded him $250 damages against Herbert Taylor, manager of the Cardiff Empire and Moss' Empires, Limited, jointly, as a result of his forcible ejection from the hall.

A witness stated that when the plaintiff got outside he looked as if he had come out of a boxing match.—New York Tribune.

CHILDREN'S READING.

In limiting a child's reading to what we ourselves hold to be, or what somebody else holds to be, a wholesome literature, we ought to remember that in the matter of reading—whatever may be true of anything else in the wide world—a child, no more than a grown man, gets any benefit from that which he does not enjoy. Make him learn his lessons by all means, be they palatable or unpalatable; they are another pair of shoes. But when his task time is over, and he is loose for a glorious while among his books, then go warily, and remember that you are a parent and not a pedagogue. Ay, and not more than you need be of a censor.—Hubert Bland, in the London Sunday Chronicle.

ENGLISH FAMILIES OF THREE.

Families of three are more numerous than any others in England, according to a Blue Book recently issued. Such families constitute 19 per cent. of the total number; those of four, 18 per cent.; of five, 14 per cent., and those of six, 10 per cent. In London the women living alone outnumber the lonely men to the extent of 58,594 to 37,130.

OUT OF THE GLOOM.

Many a Gloomy Countenance in Hopkinsville Now Lightens With Happiness.

A bad back makes you gloomy. Can't be happy with continual backache.

The aches and pains of a bad back are frequently due to weak kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended for weak kidneys.

So Hopkinsville citizens testify. Miss L. A. Hester, Fifteenth and Clay streets, Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "The pain in my back, caused by disorderly kidneys, was so severe some days that I often felt like lying down. If I walked any distance or exerted myself in any way, I was troubled more. If I caught cold I was miserable. In the morning, I felt stiff and sore and often found it difficult to dress. Kidney weakness bothered me. I doctored, but found little relief. Finally, Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I got a box. They removed the pains in my back and corrected the kidney weakness."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Poker an Italian Game.

Poker is probably a development of il frusso, an Italian game of the fifteenth century. A similar game called primiera was played in Italy in the sixteenth century, and thence journeyed into Spain. In France this became ambigu, and later appeared in England under the name of brag. Poker is distinctly an American game, and seems to have descended more directly from the game of brag than from any of the others.

Women Who Get Dizzy.

Every woman who is troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney troubles should use Electric Bitters. They give relief when nothing else will, improve the health, adding strength and vigor from the first dose. Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Avoca, La., says: "Four doctors had given me up and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die, when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good." Just try them. 50c. and $1.00 at all druggists or by mail. H. E. Bucken & Co. Philadelphia or St. Louis. Advertisement.

Origin of the Term Swan-Song.

The idea of the sentiment conveyed by the words "swan song" is that the swan when dying sings for the first time. As a matter of fact swans do not sing at any time, and this interesting saying is said to be derived from an old Norse legend which has to do with the Valkyries, mythical maidens in armor with wings of a swan, who when they floated over the scene of a battle sang the song of death.

The Family Cough Medicine.

In every home there should be a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, ready for immediate use when any member of the family contracts a cold or cough. Prompt use will stop the spread of sickness. S. A. Stid, of Mason, Mich., writes: "My whole family depends upon Dr. King's New Discovery as the best cough and cold medicine in the world. Two 50c bottles cured me of pneumonia." Thousands of other families have been equally benefited and depend entirely upon Dr. King's New Discovery to cure their coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles. Every dose helps. Price 50c. and $1.00. All druggists. H. E. Bucken & Co. Philadelphia or St. Louis. Advertisement.

Questions Without Answers.

"Declare to goodness, ma'am," said the elevator man in the Woolworth building, "you've hardly any idea of the questions people can ask. One man looked in here the other day and asked me how many windows this building had in it. Another one, nice-looking old man he was, says to me the other day, he says: 'Who is Mr. Woolworth going to leave this building to when he dies?'"

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headache, lacked ambition, was worn out and a run down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Moosup, Conn.

WRITING THAT LETTER HOME

Duty That Daughter Should Never Neglect, Is the Assertion Made by Newspaper.

When a daughter leaves home one thing she should never neglect, one thing there is with which no duty or pleasure should interfere. It is the letter to mother. It is not enough that she send a postal card: "Very busy. Will write soon." Mother's letter should be a budget of daily, even hourly, happenings. It should be as far as possible a reflection of every thought and action in the new surroundings.

Mother's box of letters! What a treasure house of love! How she guards it! How she dreams over it and cries over it!

It is hard for a mother to let her daughter leave the home nest, so critical a moment it is in the latter's life. The daughter should strive to make the wrench less cruel. There are hours at home after she has gone that are happy or dismal according to whether she is faithful or careless in mother thought.

Never delay writing the letter home. It is the call supreme. Do all that you can to please your beloved and devoted mother. None will ever be so appreciative, so sympathetic, so forgiving, so understanding. No heart will ever beat more true.—Chicago Tribune.

PROOF TO THE CONTRARY

"Mostly wimmen allus asks me if I'm looking for work—" "Wot of it?" "An' yet dey sez wimmen ain't got no sense of humor!"

GENIUS AND HAIR.

Some inquiring creature has discovered that the way to tell genius is by the hair. True genius, declares this investigator, is marked by thick, curly, luxuriant hair, brown or black in color, which never shows any tendency to get gray before its time.

According to this classification, Samson and Absalom were the prize packages of intellect in ancient Israel, and Julius Caesar was little better than an idiot. The records do not seem to bear out this view, but when facts and fads contradict each other let facts perish.

WEBSTER'S THANKSGIVING.

For all the happiness of life, which has been so far exceedingly happy, I desire to render the most devout thanks to Almighty God. I thank him for existence; for the pleasure and glory of rational being; for an immortal nature, and for all the gratifications, the joys and the means of improvement which has blessed my earthly life; for the time and the country in which I have lived; and for those objects of love and affection whose being has been entwined with my own.—Daniel Webster's Notebook.

IN THE STONE AGE.

"Here are sign words, professor, on the wall of this cave."

"So I see."

"They tell, no doubt, a tale of great historical value."

"Not exactly. This is just the lease of the cave. Says the tenant must pay forty clam shells per month in advance and isn't allowed to keep dinosaurs, pterodactyls or saber-toothed tigers."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

RIVER IS DRAINED

Floodgate Removed From The Dam At Second Street.

OPEN FOR THE WINTER.

Stream Is Flushed And Repairs
Will Be Made On The Banks.

The floodgates at Edgewater Park were removed from the dam yesterday morning and the river is being drained to flush the lower stream and to enable the minor repairs to be made on the embankments at Second Street. The water was flowing over the dam by reason of the recent rain, which caused a rise of about one foot in the water. The six feet of water above the dam will be out by to-night.

A New Era.

The opening the Pennyroyal Fair marked the beginning of a new era in the history of Hopkinsville. Hopkinsville had the biggest crowds of people this week that have been here for twenty-five years. People from all the cities and towns in this section have been here and have learned things that must be of great advantage to the city in coming years. Just watch the old town grow in 1914.

DR. ARMISTEAD

Died In Montgomery, Ala., Sunday, Aged 75.

A telegram was received here yesterday from Mr. R. W. Kellogg, of Chicago, announcing the death of her father, Dr. J. R. Armistead, the veteran druggist long a resident of this city, who died at Montgomery, Ala., Sunday, where he had lived for several years. Besides a widow and daughter, he is survived by six sons, Thos. D., Ben R., and P., Eugene, Stanley, Rev. Joseph Victor Armistead. Two of his sons live in Montgomery, one in Lexington, two in Knoxville and one in Cincinnati.

Dr. Armistead was a life-long member of the Christian church and was about 75 years of age.

The October Strand Magazine.

The contributors to the October Strand include A. Conan Doyle, Morley Roberts, Baroness Orczy, Lady Randolph Churchill, Lord Chylesmore, General Neville Littleton, Richard Marsh, W. B. Maxwell, and many others of lesser note. Conan Doyle's contribution, a curious story entitled "How It Happened," almost proves that the noted author holds beliefs similar to those of Sir Oliver Lodge. Lady Randolph Churchill—perhaps the most noted American woman who ever married into the British peerage writes on the subject of "The Most Impressive Sight I Ever Saw," taking as her theme the first jubilee of Queen Victoria. T. H. Oyster discourses on "Marathon Golf" and describes a game in which the hole was thirty-five miles long. Prof. Ward contributes one of his admirable nature articles. The stories are numerous and excellent.

Ancient Remedy.

Nicholas Culpepper, Gentleman Student in Physick and Astrology, writing in 1695, commends as an interesting and valuable remedy, "the skull of a man that had never been buried, beaten to a powder and given inwardly, the quantity of a dram at a time in Betony water." Its particular efficacy was to be expected in palsy and falling sickness.

On Apartment House.

The Paducah Sun says: Frank M. Fisher, president of the Hopkinsville Apartment House company, has received the plans and specifications for the handsome new, two-story apartment to be erected in Hopkinsville in the Latham block.

The plans, which were drawn by Architect Britton Davis, of Louisville, have been approved and bids for the construction of the apartment are now being received. The contract will be let in a few days and work on the apartment will begin immediately. The apartment will be one of the handsomest in this end of the state and will cost $30,000.

The October Wide World Magazine.

The Wide World for October still bears out the correctness of the saying which declares that "Truth is Stranger Than Fiction." This issue of what is really a very remarkable publication contains stories and articles dealing with a score of different countries and people. Amaura Talbot continues his article on Witchcraft in West Africa and Marguerite Roby describes her exciting trip across the Congo. G. M. Dyatt writes of his experiences as an airman in Yucatan and Capt. James Barracloffe tells of his "Seven-Thousand-Mile Race for a gold Mine."

There is an exciting description of "A Battle With a Stag," and an equally absorbing account of a big steamer which ran away. In his article on "Unknown Canada" James Oliver Curwood describes vast areas of Northern Canada absolutely unknown and untouched by white man where all sorts of geographical and other wonders are to be found. The magazine is profusely illustrated with striking and unusual photographs.

THREE THINGS YOU NEED...

First—

"Kentuckian"

A virile, new newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled with fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second—

Technical World Magazine

is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to kill away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the feats of engineers and explorers, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Technical World Magazine says—"I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—

A Fine Atlas

This one is just off the press. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures. 128 pages of 3 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/2. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $5.00. A splendid gift.

SHOWING WARREN THE POINT

Little Lad's Effective Lesson in the Necessity for Employing Punctuation Marks.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Warren, as he came in from school one day, "I wish we didn't have to learn so much about periods and commas and semicolons and such things. I hate them!"

Mamma laid down her sewing and said, "Why do you hate them, Warren?"

"Why, it's so hard to remember when to use them, and besides I don't think they are of much use. I don't see why we couldn't write sentences without putting in any punctuation marks."

Mamma smiled and then rising from her chair she went over to the desk and got out a piece of paper and a pencil. Then she wrote: "The little turkey strutted about the yard and ate corn half an hour after his head was cut off."

"Why, mummy, how funny!" exclaimed Warren when he had read it, "how could a turkey walk around eating corn without any head?"

"He couldn't," replied mamma, "and yet I have written just what I intended to write. I have, however, left out all punctuation marks."

Then she bent down and punctuated the sentence. It then read: "The little turkey strutted about the yard and ate corn; half an hour after, his head was cut off."

"Oh, I see," cried Warren, and then there he resolved to learn all that he could about punctuation marks.—Woman's World.

DOG TUGS AT BABY CARRIAGE

After It's Out of Water He Jumps Around Until Satisfied That It's Empty.

Edwin Main Post relates an incident which demonstrated the remarkable intelligence of one of his Airedale terriers. It will be remembered that Mayor Gaynor recently exhibited an Airedale of Mr. Post's breeding. The dog in question is Empost Captain Andrew, known as Cattie, and beloved and petted by every one, but very fond of small children.

Cattie is very fond of taking a swim in a large pond near Mr. Post's house in Babylon, L. I., and the other day went in from the north side of the pond for the first time. When about 100 yards from the shore he suddenly began to bark, paw the water and dive under. He kept this up for so long a time, refusing to obey orders to come out, that Mr. Post finally had to go out to him. The dog was found trying to pull out of the mud a baby carriage. When it was taken out on the bank, the dog made a careful inspection of it, nosing it all over, and when he evidently was satisfied there was no baby in it he shook the water off his body and led the way home.

"Some people may say this was only instinct," said Mr. Post, "but I believe that this action of my dog showed an intelligence prompted by a reasoning power."

DISAPPOINTED.

"I shall not see that interviewer again," said the actress.

"Why not?" inquired the press agent.

"He kept talking about art and never said a word concerning my dog, my diamonds or my previous husband."—Washington Star.

TRY TO.

"I am afraid that actors sometimes deceive us about the salaries they get."

"No," replied the keen observer. "They may think they do, but they don't."

NATURAL RESULT.

"That was a very lame argument."

"Of course, when it hadn't a leg to stand on."

CRUEL INSINUATION.

"Mind cures are not always successful."

"Of course not. They've got to have something to work on."

HOW HE TRAVELS.

Footlights—Do you consider Hamm travels on the square?

Miss Su Brette—No; he's traveling on one of the circuits now.

A LAMB.

"Why are you so sore on that eminent millionaire? He has done some good things."

"I was one of them."

FOUND HAPPINESS IN LABOR

Sensible If Unusual Course Followed by Man Who Had Millions at His Command.

A forceful lesson in the human nature which rules us all may be gathered from the experience of the young man who, inheriting a large fortune, was wise enough to realize that no man, rich or poor, can find happiness except in work and accomplishment, says the Boston Herald.

This man, while still in college, fell heir to several millions, but tired of the futility of an existence in which there was no element of difficulty, left his home and college, obtained employment on the construction line of a railroad, rose on his own merits to be a section boss and now reports himself thoroughly happy.

His action was futile and foolish for one who might use the power of wealth for his pleasure and others' good, it may be said, but it shows that he realized the real unhappiness of those who try to be happy without the stress of work, be it self-imposed or necessary for self-support.

No men are more unhappy than those from whom circumstances have removed the pressure which requires hard work, and who have not had either the willingness or foresight to force themselves to tasks which call for their best and utmost endeavor. Often, indeed, it may seem that nothing would be pleasanter than a life of luxurious idleness, but one has only to see the victims of such living to be disabused of this delusion.

In this country the privileges and responsibilities of great inherited wealth have been but recently experienced, and the very newness of such possessions has led many to waste their lives in the futile quest of pleasure. Luckily today more and more of the sons of rich men have grown to understand that they can lead a satisfactory existence only if they live much as others do, using their wealth rather to enlarge the results of their work than to escape its call.

OBJECT LESSON MISSED FIRE

Uncle's Idea of Teaching His Country Nephew Caution Proved Something of a Failure.

A youth from the country was paying his first visit to New York, and, accompanied by his uncle, a leading banker, went to the theater, says the Pathfinder. While waiting in the lobby before the performance the country boy flung back his coat and with hands in his pockets displayed a heavy gold watch-chain. The uncle observed the act and resolved to teach him a lesson.

While the young man's attention was diverted the uncle slipped the watch and chain from his vest, and they entered the theater.

"What time is it?" he asked when they were seated.

The boy felt for his time-piece and found it was gone. Allowing him to make a thorough search of it, the uncle told him he had taken it and read him a sharp lecture. "You are not in the country now, you know, where you can display valuables with impunity. You should be more careful. Let this be a lesson to you."

So saying he slipped his hand into his overcoat pocket where he had put the watch. To his utter dismay he found it was gone. And when he looked to see if his own was safe he found that also had taken wings.

Modern Surgery.

Dr. A. L. Sorel of New York, who is in London for the medical congress, gave details of a new marvel in surgery he is studying; nothing less than the grafting of new limbs to replace those lost. The victim of an amputation may have the leg of a dead man or woman fixed upon him by surgeons, who will join the nerves and veins, making the dead limb revive and begin a new life with its new owner.

Doctor Sorel has been long experimenting on animals. "I took the leg from a dead white dog," he said, "and grafted it on a yellow dog, whose leg had been removed. The yellow dog, with one white leg, now trots about thoroughly well. I have now three patients awaiting my return, to whom I hope to give new limbs taken from the bodies of persons accidentally killed."

Little Lard Used in Austria.

On account of its high price very little lard is consumed in cooking in Austria, but a preparation commonly called "speisefet," or cooking fat, is used. It is sold under the name of "Ceres," and it is said that its principal ingredient is palm oil. This substance is prepared in the towns of Bodenbach and Aussig, in the Reichenberg district, and sells for $13.40 per 100 pounds in large quantities or 14 cents per pound in small quantities in Carlsbad. It is put up in cakes weighing one-half kilo (1.1 pounds) and is sold without container. In appearance it is much like cotton lene.

Old Indian Fire-Producer.

Nanaimo, the Coal City of Vancouver island, has just secured some interesting Indian relics, presented to the Native Sons' post of that city by W. Chappel of Gabriola Island. Among the specimens is an admirable example of a stone arrowhead and what, for want of a better term, may be called a "kindler." This is a flat, circular rock with a hole in the center. There is also an oblong, lemon-shaped stone which fits in this hole. The natives used to create a spark by revolving the small stone in the hole.

The Love Letters of a Confederate General

WE begin in the November issue a series of real love-letters written over fifty years ago by one of our national heroes to his sweetheart during the period of '61 to '65. This great general will go down to posterity as having accomplished one of the most brilliant feats of arms in the history of the world. He was as great a lover as he was a general, therefore these letters combine authentic history and exquisite romance. They sound a human note that no other work of literature has done in a decade; it is war, it is romance, it is history, it is literature. You simply can't afford to miss this wonderful series—an inside story of the Civil War now published for the first time and containing all the freshness of a contemporary happening. These letters will grip you hard, and hold your interest from first to last. Fill out the coupon and send it now before you forget it.

ROYAL MUMMIES IN MUSEUM
Once Mighty Kings and Queens of Egypt Now Merely the Subjects of Scientific Examination.

The mummies of some fifty kings
and queens now lie side by side in the Cairo museum, a grim reminder of the unstable fabric of earthly glory, remarks the Dundee Advertiser. Professor Elliot Smith is not wholly unmindful of that earthly glory, nor of the violated sentiments
involved in thus displaying and cat-aloguing these remnants of royal power. He reminds us that but for the museum authorities these mummies would have been destroyed by robbers, and as a slight return for the protection thus afforded he claims the right of a respectful scientific examination. Indeed, the examination has already been made.
Many of the bodies have been carefully unwrapped and so we know for the first time that King Sagnounri,
who reigned 2,000 B. C., was murdered, his "battered skull and wounded body" testifying eloquently
to that fact. Doubtless the event made quite a stir in its day, but far in discussion, prize fights and the like have driven it from the modern memory. We know now that Me-nephtha, the Pharaoh of the exodus,
erroneously supposed to have been drowned in the Red sea, was a corpulent man, nearly bald, with a fringe of white hair over the temples.

SCHOOL FOR ADULTS.
"People's high schools," as they are called, have been flourishing in Denmark for a long time. In that country there are 70 such schools,
with 8,000 pupils, and one school at Askov, in South Jutland, has been in existence since 1863. One-tenth of the population of Denmark, it is estimated, has passed through these schools, which now are given small
state subsidies, though there is no
state interference with the institution. The schools are not technical or "practical." They seek only to develop minds on broadly cultural lines. There are no examinations for admission or for leaving; much of the instruction is given by lectures, and the teacher is given wide latitude.

Norway and Sweden, it may be added, have experimented successfully with similar institutions.

EVIDENCE OF EXPERTNESS.
"Does that young man understand
music?"
"I think he must," replied the man who always gives the benefit.
"Whenever he plays he sounds exactly like a piano tuner."

asked him for my hand in marriage?"
"Not a word."
"He didn't?"
"No; your mother said it all."

ITS SPECIALTY.

"What is that?"
"Trouble, when one is hunting it."

REAL THING IN SETTLEMENT.
"What did the old man settle on the young couple when his daughter married?"
"Himself."

CONTEST WITHOUT A TRUCE

Men of Science Always on the Alert to Discover Cures for Diseases of the Human Race.

The civilized world always stirs
with flutter of hope whenever the word goes forth that a new cure for some disease has been discovered. If the disease happens to be one of the great scourges of humanity, like cancer or tuberculosis, the interest is immediate and intense. The day has gone when such news could filter slowly through to the public. The newspapers, especially in this country, knock at every door. Within 24 hours after a "cure" is announced every one who is old enough
to read knows all about it.

There is a reasonable justification
for the springing hope, for time and again in the past a miracle has appeared. Smallpox, diphtheria, typhoid and lockjaw are horrors that we have passed in our upward climb.
All over the world trained men are bending over test tubes and gazing
through microscopes in unremitting
efforts to make even the smallest discovery. Here at last, perhaps, we have the sure thing that the world has been expecting. How can we tell till we try it?—Youth's Companion.

SHE SAW THEM

"I suppose you enjoyed your trip
abroad?"
"Oh, yes, immensely."
"And did you see the aqueducts in Rome?"
"Yes; and how I did enjoy seeing them swim."
"Seeing what swim?"
"Why, the aqua ducks."

WASTING TIME.

Enraptured, they gazed, hand-in-hand, upon the beautiful scene
stretched before them in the setting
sun. 'Twas the lake district, and they but three days upon their honeymoon.

"Dearest," he said, gazing at her fondly, "isn't this heavenly?"
"Yes, Reginald," she softly murmured.

"Do you know," he whispered ardently, "to me life does not seem long enough for our happiness. Just think, even if we are fortunate,
our married life can hardly last longer than fifty years."

"Is that all?" she queried won-deringly, edging nearer.

"Yes, that's so," a touch of sadness in his voice. "Only fifty years
in which to love each other."

"Then kiss me quick, Reginald,"
she exclaimed, "we're wasting time!"

'LITTLE HOODY'S' GOOD WORK

Statement Made That Glory of Oliver Hazard Perry's Victory Belongs
to That State.

The celebration of Perry's victory on Lake Erie recalls that the northwest
was not only settled very largely by emigration from the New England states, but that those great and populous states were very probably saved
to the union in the second war with England by the enterprise and valor
of New England sailors, the Boston
Herald observes.

Oliver Hazard Perry, then a commander in the navy and much discontented because the duties assigned
to him offered no opportunity for proving his mettle, was a Rhode Islander
in charge of a fleet of gunboats guarding Narragansett bay in the winter of 1812-13. Possessed, he said, "by an ardent desire to meet the enemies
of his country," he applied for service on the lakes. On the very day that the order came for his transfer to Lake Erie he sent forward fifty men,
the second day he sent fifty more,
another party started on the long journey the following day, and Perry himself started on February 22, taking
with him the boy of his famous painting, his brother, aged twelve years.
The wilderness trip was a hard and tedious one, and the lake was reached on March 27. All the men who had been under his orders in Rhode Island had volunteered for the service,
so attached to him were they.

There is good reason to consider the operations that followed on Lake Erie
as part of the history of Rhode Island. "The interruption of commerce
by the war had thrown many captains,
mates and seamen out of employment,
and many of them had taken service
with Perry on the Narragansett flotilla. Thus it came about that Rhode Island had in the battle of Lake Erie not only Perry himself, but four of the nine commanders, a majority of the sailing masters and mates, a large number of the remaining officers and a great many of the sailors, besides the men who superin-
tended the rigging and arming of the fleet.

The centenary celebration, therefore, is a tribute to the prowess of a New England state. It was said years ago by a historian that there never was an expedition of importance to the country which was made up so largely of officers and men from a single state.

DISEASES CURED BY RESTING

For Active Tuberculosis Especially,
Repose in Bed Is Most Powerful Remedial Agent.

An eminent English scientist declares that in both the plant and animal kingdoms rest is essential to growth. In infancy development is in its highest state of activity, and the healthy infant passes the greatest portion of its life in a state of rest
and sleep.

Repair is but the repetition of growth
and for it rest is just as necessary as an injury to limbs when rest is obtained by splints, bandages, etc. In the case of the heart and lungs rest
can be got only by resting the whole body in the recumbent position. Rest
in bed is the most powerful curative
agent in the treatment of active tuberculosis.

One or two months in bed, he says,
are necessary in the beginning of treatment of all cases. If the disease is very active the patient should be fed by a nurse and treated as in typhoid fever. Bed treatment should be continued until the temperature
and pulse have both been normal for some time and the weight is nearly normal. The rest treatment of tuberculosis has been attended with pleasing results.

Thick.
Attorney General McReynolds said
of an unwise charity:

"Such a charity, sustaining the shift-
less at the expense of the thrifty, reminds me of Farmer Brown's hired man, John.

"John's a good feller," said Farmer
Brown, "but a bit thick—a bit thick."
"I'll tell you what John's like. I sent him out one morning to thin out
the onion patch—it was a fine patch,
but overcrowded. He worked a day or two on the job, and then I went to see what he'd been doing.

"Well, sir, I found that he'd pulled out all the biggest onions and heaved
them away, leaving only the smallest,
meanest plants in each row. I asked him what in tarnation he meant by such work, and he said he wanted to give the little fellows a chance—the big ones had crowded them out and they couldn't grow.

"Yes, John's a bit thick—a bit
thick."

Of Bar Room Nationality.

Alderman John Koerner is rapidly coming forth as the real wit in the city hall, as those who have attended common council meetings will testify. During a discussion the other day, one of the aldermen demanded
the nationality of one of the city officials.

"On his mother's side, the family
is Scotch, so I suppose he's half Scotch," began Alderman E. A. Wit-
tig. "As for the other half—"

"Seltzer, I suppose," finished up Alderman Koerner.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Quite the Contrary.

"Well, did Bibbles enjoy his fishing trip?"
"Yes. He says he had a corking
good time."

"Umph! I know Bibbles. He means
he had an uncorking good time."

NO DOUBT ABOUT HIS CLASS

According to Kansas City Paper, Harry Kemp Had No Difficulty Proving He Was a Tramp Poet.

A New York letter the other week mentioned that lots of folks thought at the time that Harry Kemp was being three-sheeted through this land as "the tramp poet" that he was just a poet. But they were wrong. Mr. Kemp is a hobo of purest ray serene. It is a pleasure to certificate him.
"I live," said Mr. Kemp to an editor the other day, "in a shack on the Palisades. I came into town today to sell a poem. This is Friday, and I do not want to go back to the shack before Monday afternoon."
The editor took the poem and read it very carefully and then looked at Kemp's clothes—which were comparatively whole in several places—and then showed that he had a good business mind.
"I'll give you," said the editor, "$3 for this poem."
The editor thought that Kemp would ask for more and that he could do a bit of pleasant bargaining. But he was disappointed.
"I'll take it," said the tramp poet. "Three dollars is all I'll need for three days in New York."—Kansas City Star.

MANY ARRESTS.

Chief Roper and His Men Were Busy Fair Week.

With attendance running from 8,000 to 15,000 during the five days of the fair only 75 or 80 arrests were made for the week. It is gratifying to report that all of the arrests were for minor offences. Saturday the line-up in the police court was 23. Monday morning there were 16 before Judge Wood. Some paid there fines and others are working there fines out in the streets.

Key Touched by Wilson.

Washington, Oct. 13.—The momentary touch of a key by the President of the United States Friday sent a flash of electricity through a continuous telegraph and cable connection of 4,000 miles, setting off a gigantic blast of dynamite which exploded the Gamboa dike, the last of the great physical barriers to water communication in the Panama canal. It was an extraordinary feat of telegraphy, especially planned for the occasion. At precisely 2 o'clock Friday afternoon President Wilson, simply closing a telegraph key at the White House, sent the current over land and under sea, and just a few seconds later came the message informing him that the explosion had been successful.

Columbus Day.

Yesterday was the new national holiday, "Columbus Day," and the banks were closed. The next holiday will be Thanksgiving Day.

Daily Thought.

The great thing in the world is not so much to seek happiness as to earn peace and self-respect.—Huxley.

"It certainly does make me weary, all these innuendoes in the funny papers about the women. One would think by some of the supposedly facetious jokes that we girls didn't have enough intelligence to keep out of the home for the feeble minded," remarked Hulda Nutt to her sister, Ima, as she pointed to an illustration in the evening paper.

"Now here, for instance, is a re-hashed story about a bridegroom carrying a basket, approaching a narrow creek. He turns to his simple minded bride—I judge she must have been simple or she never would have married him—and he offers to carry her across the stream. This egotistical male jokester has the bride make the inane reply: 'But you can't carry both me and the lunch basket. We would be too heavy. You carry me and I will carry the lunch basket.'"

"As a matter of fact that foolish chestnut was first recorded about an old man with a basket of eggs and a commendably humane heart, who, as he boarded the street car, observed that the arched necks and cruelly docked tails of the two decrepit horses in front, bespoke a sadly contrasting prosperity in their remote youth. The old man's tender heart was touched at the pitiful sight, and as he took his seat in the car, he gently lifted the basket of eggs out the window and held them there all the way of his journey to make the burden lighter for the poor horses. So you see, Ima," she added with an emphatic nod of her head, "the men are every bit as foolish as the women, if not more so."

SETTLED THE JUDGE'S DOUBTS

Naive Statement of Convicted Murderer Removed All Question as to His Guilt.

When Judge Stewart of Vermont presided at the trial of a negro charged with murder of another of his race he admitted afterward to friends that he had serious doubts of the prisoner's guilt until he began to pronounce sentence.

The negro had pleaded not guilty and repeatedly, on being questioned, had asserted, with much emphasis, "I didn't do it!" The evidence was not convincing, and the judge was surprised when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. His doubts vanished, when, after reminding the negro that he had been tried by a jury of 12 men, etc., he said: "It is my duty to warn you that your days on earth are numbered, and it behooves you to avail yourself of the little remnant of time allotted to you to make peace with God."

Just there the negro broke in with the exclamation, "Ah done dat already, judge, befo' Ah went out ter kill dat niggah!"

Many Old People in Berlin.

According to statistics just published Berlin appears to be an extraordinarily healthful place for the aged, who live there in remarkably large numbers. A feature of the figures is the much greater number of old women in proportion to old men, and with every decade above seventy the proportion increases astonishingly. In Berlin the number of men between seventy and eighty is 12,898, while the number of women is 25,204. For Greater Berlin the figures are 20,049 and 37,520 respectively. Of persons between eighty and ninety women are in an enormous majority. For Berlin the figures are 2,036 men and 5,371 women and for Greater Berlin 3,169 men and 7,810 women. Berlin has a large number of nonagenarians, and of these three out of every four are women. In Greater Berlin there are 364 women who have passed their ninetieth birthday, but only 111 men.

Moving Picture Animals.

A jungle of several acres, inhabited by wild animals of all countries, many of which are already well trained for the parts they are to play as motion picture actors, is maintained near Los Angeles by one of the big American film-producing companies. It is intended to extend the acreage and accommodations until the motion picture jungle will form the largest single collection of wild animals in the world, and within it will be, and now are, enacted many stirring scenes. A big elephant named "Toddles" is, for instance, the star performer in a film catalogued as "Lost in the Jungle," in which Toddles, during his wanderings in the forest, finds the heroine lying exhausted on the ground, and, kneeling, lifts her to his back and gallantly carries her to safety. All the animals are as conscientiously trained to do acts for the motion picture camera as are the trained animals of a circus.

Unpretentious Royal Abode.

King Charles of Roumania has seen many changes, largely effected by himself, in his Balkan kingdom since he arrived there in 1866 after an adventurous journey in disguise from Germany. Notable among them are the changes in his capital and in his own palace. When he made his triumphal entry as the country's new prince the carriage reached a house before which a guard of honor was stationed. "What house is that?" he asked. "That is the palace," replied General Galeski. The prince, thinking he had misunderstood him, said: "Where is the palace?" And the general was so embarrassed that he could only point silently to the one-storied building. The principal feature of the view from the windows on one side was a gypsy encampment, with swine wallowing in the main road before the palace!

For those of us who are forced to spend most of our summers in cities there are a few consoling thoughts, remarks a writer in the Atlantic Monthly. One is that the severest heat does not prompt men to crime, as the social statisticians have found that the severest cold does. Another is that the worst temperature we are called upon to face falls a long way short of the endurance limit of the human body and brain, as proved by French experiments at the 250 degree level. Another comes from the discovery through the newspapers, with every prolonged hot wave, that we are "breaking the record" in some line or other. This ought to be a stimulus to our pride, and if we wish to carry further the beneficent influence of mental suggestion, all we need to do is to compare what is happening to us with what has happened to various other people at various other times. For instance, when the encyclopedias tell us that in A. D. 627 the heat in France and Germany dried the water sources and a multitude of people died of thirst; that in the battle of Bela, in 1260, more soldiers were killed by the sun than by the weapons of the foe; that in 1303 three great rivers of western Europe went dry, and that in Odessa, in 1889, the noon temperature reached 144 degrees and a sunshade was necessary at five in the morning, we are bound to conclude that we are not so badly off, after all.

PRESENT LIMIT OF WIRELESS

Depends Largely on Existing Weather Conditions, but Possibilities Are Apparently Unknown.

According to Prof. J. A. Fleming, several of the most powerful wireless stations are now generating ether waves having a length from crest to crest of about four miles, and these disturbances can be "detected" at distances up to 6,000 miles from their source—that is, four such stations would suffice to "girdle" the earth. Obviously, however, the ability to "detect" the signals over this vast distance, presumably under favorable weather conditions, is a very different thing from the power to maintain commercial communication along the route. As yet the wireless service available to the public covers but a third, or at most half, this distance.

There is as yet no means of determining the practical limit of wireless communication. Improvements in apparatus, perhaps even some new discovery as to methods of stirring up the ether, may revolutionize the art and upset all present standards. But at present even the most successful systems get into serious difficulties when called upon to maintain constant communication over a line 2,000 miles in length. A recent British wireless commission was able to secure but one demonstration on a line 1,000 miles long, although several companies declared their ability much to exceed this distance in a commercial installation.—New York Evening Post.

War Declared on Materialism.

To combat the materialism of the present age in earnest a society has just been founded by Edmond Rostand, Maeterlinck and Camille Flammarion and is receiving the enthusiastic support of the thinking public.

A large number of members have already enrolled themselves among the committeemen being some of the leading figures in French thought. The founders are calling upon all who are willing to fight for the higher ideals of art, literature and science in the face of the decadence now threatening French taste to join their ranks. Several branches, it is announced, are being formed in the provinces and abroad.

Another Tribute to the Horse.

When it was first said last April that horseracing was to be resumed in the state of New York, Col. Franklin P. Morgan, who loves sport of any sort, expressed his gratification at the news.

"Horseracing," he said enthusiastically, "is a great and glorious thing. It warms the heart, thrills the brain and puts money into circulation."

"Yes, yes," chimed in the group who was listening to him.

"The only trouble is," added the colonel dryly, "that in the matter of horseracing all of the horse sense is on the track, and none of it in the betting ring."—Popular Magazine.

Remarkable Alpine Road.

The water gallery of the Simplon road, says Professor McKibben in Good Roads, is one of the interesting features of that international highway built by Napoleon I. It is an arched structure over the roadway, constructed so that a stream passes over the roadway instead of underneath, while openings in the masonry give ventilation to the gallery. Though the railway tunnel now carries most of the through traffic, more than ten thousand persons annually cross the Alps by this road.

Lights of London.

London will be one of the best lighted cities in the world when the installation of a new system of centrally suspended lamps using high pressure gas with inverted burners has been completed. Although the amount of illumination will be increased by 6,000 candle power, it is estimated that a saving of about $34,000 a year will be made over the old system.
